AMATEURS AT BILLIARDS.

POGGENBERG DEFEATS GARDNES IN THE TOURNEY'S BEST GAME.

Keeney, the Oxford Expert, Outplays "Adonts" Oakes ... "Bean Brummell" Stark Has a Lively Battle with Oakes Fred Oakes, the young Adonis of the New York Athletic Club, whose art at cushion carroms is a thing of beauty, met Frank Keeney the good-looking and gamy Oxford Club star, in the opening contest in the inter-city amateur tournament at Daly's Academy amphitheatre on Broadway yesterday. Both men had tied J. B. Stark for the cup in last year's big amateur was handlcapped yesterday at 240 to Oaken's 220. The enthusiasts showed lively interest in the cue battle and wagered consideraaway at accompatic woods, but went at the game with rather stiff and uncertain cue strokes

Suddenly the Brooklyn lad began to pile up groups of double-figure breaks that served to out down his handicap and bring things down to an even game. A cluster of 16 neat carrome finally did make things even up in the sixteenth inning, the score standing Keeney 65 to 42 for the handsome Athletic Club expert. Oaker carrom work later on, a double-figure cluster of 14. Keeney rounded his first wire with a double figure of just a dozen, the buttons standing 102 to 75 in his favor. Graceful as were Oakes's open-table carroms, however, they were ineffective against young Keeney's clever work near the balk line. He kept widening the breach in the scores. But Oakes's dandy cushion carroms drew plentiful applause. His "draws" with the bridge were real gens of When he passed his first wire he had 104 to Keeney's 148, and was bucking against discouraging hard luck on "liners." Keeney kept wedging in doubles that smashed all Oakes's open play. He rounded his second wire 200 to 143. The Adonis of the "winged foot" club smiled, and knew that things were about

The Liederkranz Hereules, Fred Poggenberg, rossed cues negt with Eu Gardiner, the Passaio car. The latter was handicapped at 200, age latter was the first to evoke the blaudits of The spectators by actuster of 12 beauties. His heavy cue seemed to be of feather weight as he plied it. His spread "draws" were especially admirable in execution. Another dozen shots by Gardner, combining "follows," spreads," and "draws," gave a delightful glimpse of the Passaio star's easy grace of play and ingenious execution. Gardner is another of the good-looking amateurs. His stalwart opponent gnawed a perfecto as he watched the Passaio expert's graceful carroms.

The billiand levers themselves kept on applauding Gardner's dainty carroms appreciatively. Gardner admitted, though, before the battle was a third over, that he had had a hard man to meet in the big-chested Lieder-kranzer. A superb draw brought Gardner past his first wire at Just 100, only three points ahead of Poggenberg. The young Hercules turned the wire, too, an instant later, and the game stood even at 100 buttons each. The amateurs battled in gallant style after that, but despite the really beautiful billiards executed by Gardner, which included two "bank" shots of magnificent daring and accuracy, the Liederkranz favorite won the game, which was the most exciting of the tourney, by 200 to 221. Hard luck hampered Gardner at the close.

I. Byron Stark, whom all the stars call the "Beau Brummel" of amateurdom, finished an exciting bout with the cues. Stark, who is the Manhattan Athietic Clubstar, was handicapped at 270 to "Adonis" Oakee's 220, and the crowd lingered to see the finish. Stark played laggingly at the start, but made things lively anough at the finish. It took sixty-six innings to decide the battle. Oakes made eight double-figures unus, and Stark made ten, beating his rival of the New York Athletic Club 270 to 201. The scores:

4 0-08; Oates 2 2-16.

To-day's schedule is as follows: Dr. Ranney (210) vs. Poggenberg (200); Keeney (240) vs. Dr. Miller (240); Dr. Raney (210) vs. Gardner (250); Barnard (210) vs. Dr. Jennings (200).

end of the table, which clicited a great deal of applause. He kept up this great work by clever nursing, gathering thirty-five, missing on a round-the-table shot. Baker collected four in his first try, and by steady playing and excellent general billiards crept up close to Stark. In the thirty-fourth inning he was only four points behind his opponent, and had him tied in the thirty-sixth inning. From then until the forty-first inning the game was nip and tuck, each man holding his own. Stark then forged ahead and carried off the honors. The score:

Under the new rules challenges for the challenge pennant of America and the Hudson River pennant must be sent in each year to receive consideration. As none have been sent in this year there will be no challenge pennant races until further notice. Cup races will be decided as soon as the ice permits. Commodore Rogers holds both the challenge pennant of America and the Hudson River pennant. Ho won the former several years ago with the Jack Frost. Since then there has been no good ice boating on the Hudson River. The Hudson River lee Yacht Club and its predecessor, the Poughkeepsie Club, have successfully defended the American pennant for at loast thirty years.

The lee at Roosevelt's Point is heavy enough to hold boats, and several have already been rigged. More will be put on to-morrow.

National Board Meeting Called. The meeting of the National Board has been called for Friday, Jan. 34, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. This information was sent out by President N. E. Young yesterday. TO APPEAL RACING CASES.

Judge Ingraham's Decision to Be Reviewed ts a Higher Court.

Notice of appeal has been filed by District Attorney Fellows in the cases of President Samuel B. Lawrence of the Westchester Racing Association and Joseph Sturgis, the clerk of Orlando Jones, bookmaker, who were discharged by Judge Ingraham on Dec. 3, on the ground that racing was not a lotter; and that no violations of the Penal Code had been committed. It is hoped to have the argument fixed for the February term of the new Appellate Court. The Dis-trict Attorney believes that the decision may be adverse to the continuance of racing in this State.

A bill has been drawn up by John M. Howers and De Lanney Nicoll, on behalf of the Jockey Club, to be presented to the Legislature in case of a decision against the racing interests. The provisions of the bill will not be made known unless the Percy-Gray bill is not sustained by the Court of Appeals. Counsel believe the decision of Judge Ingraham will be sustained.

News from the Horse World.

A despatch from California states that Lucky Baidwin of the Santa Anita stable has reegaged Sam Hildreth to train for him during the coming season.

J. T. Stewart & Son of Kansas City will race their two-year-olds in the East this year, for the first time in some seasons. Owing to the uncertain turf outlook they did not sell the yearlings last year, as usual, and they will continue to maintain a racing stable until the yearling market suits, their views. They have four entries in the Great Trial, Double Event, Flatbush and Great Eastern Stakes, to be run at the Coney Island Jockey Club meetings, and five in the Autumn Stakes. J. T. Stewart is a millionaire grocer in Kansas City.

Unless it is shown that Fred Foster's brothers have been interested with him in the outlaw winter meeting at St. Louis, the following, from the Turf. Field and Furm, would indicate that the entries of Dr. Rice and Eloroy for the Brooklyn Handlean must stand: "A bill of sale was field at the office of the Recorder of Deeds in St. Louis on Jan. 13 by Fred Foster transferring to his brothers, Matthew H. and George roster, all of his rights, title, and interest in the race horses Dr. Rice, chestnut horse, 9, by Onondaga, dam Bonnie Lee: Eloroy, bay gelding, 6, by imp. HARD WON CHAMPIONSHIPS

MATEUR BOXERS AND WRESTLERS TEST THEIR SCIENCE.

Spirited Bouts at the New M. A. C.-Joe Wayne Cleans Out the Bantame-Lydon the Stiffest Puncher Among the Penther Weights-Bonnet, Vestner, and Uliman Winners in the Wrestling Classes. The boxing and wrestling championships of the Metropolitan Association were brought to a nighly successful issue at the New Manhattan A. C. last night. The big gymnasium was fairly well filled, although not to the extent which such a lively spectacle merited. About the only serious drawback to the enter-tainment was its abnormal length. In fact, there was ample material for a third night's sport, and, as vacant dates are not at a premium just now, the card might have been split up with advantage. Onlookers showed marked appreciation of the spirited railies which cropped up in almost bout, and a few enthusiasts near the ropes, who had been making trips to the café at ntervals, grew so noisy that they had to be called down. Some of the latter element underook to coach the referee, but Maxey More suppressed them in short order. A start was made at 8140'clock with the semifinals in the 105-pound boxing class, but before he first pair took the centre the wrestlers were already busy on the mat in the northeast corner of the gymnasium. The regulars, however, ignored the catch-as-catch-can experts in favor nelly of the Nationals went in to annihilate Roberts, the St. Stephen's bantam, and looked like doing it for a round. Then Roberts emembered that he had a pretty good straight left, and he brought it into play with telling Donnelly tried hard to stem the tide and got in ome wild swings, one of which put Roberts's eft eye in mourning. The St. Stephen's lad left

The second bout was a farcical affair in which J. J. Stack of the Pastimes soon had enough. The bout was stopped and awarded to Wayne of the New West Sides. The latter was again in evidence in the final bout and surprised the talent by polishing off Roberts for the cham-

There was some stiff punching among the eathers. E. Goodbody an over-weight bantam, had a very warm time with McDermott of the Nationals, but finally earned the referee's decision, the judges having disagreed. Lydon of the Clippers and Leonard of the Nationals boxed a rousing bout. The latter had a pull in height and reach which a pull worried Lydon for a round. Then the Clipper man steadled his rival with jolts in the short ribs, and a desperate give-and-take battle ensued. Both were good two-nanded boxers, and there was little to choose between them at the end. Lydon was the more aggressive, how-ever, and both judges picked him. Although giving away almost ten pounds, lit-tle Fagan kopt Curtis of the Clippers going for two fierce rounds in the first bout of the special class. The heavier man wore him down toward the end and got the decision before time ex-pired.

class. The heavier man wore him down toward the end and got the decision before time expired.

Charley White's windmill wonder, Kelly, tried to knock the head off Burns of the New West Sides, and got a badly smashed face for his pains. Burns was kept on the jump up to the third round, when he got his man on the rum and would have put him to sleep if the referes had not interfered.

Hannon of the Unions, who won so cleverly in the first round of the light weights, was outclassed both in weight and science by Selfridge, who floored him three times, and won cleverly after three short rounds.

It was a rousing bout while Hannon was fresh. Robert Kellett and John Clark, who boxed to a draw on Wedneaday night, were put on again. Clark swung and rushed into straight jabs in the wildest fashion, but science told in the end, and Kellett got the decision.

The advent of the middle weights caused quite a futter, as it was understood that John L. Mitchell, who had drawn a bye in the preliminaries, could clear out the crowd if necessary. He looked anything but a world beater as he faced Hayes of the Pastimes.

The Indian kept right at his man, and floored him early in the second round with a terrific right behind the ear. Mitchell recled to his corner in dazed fashion, and the referee awarded the bout to Hayes.

During all this time the wrestlers were pegging away in their corner to the evident enjoyment of a select coterie. There was a desperate atruggle between Pechinsky and Marden, a light-weight pair. They wrestled off and on for about an hour, Marden finally getting the decision for work. The Clinton A. C. people asserted indignantly that Pechinsky had not got a square deal and that Referee Boyus had misinterpreted the rules. When the bouts were sifted down to the finals the mat was hauled in on the stage so that all might have a look at the champions. Bonnet, Vestner, and Uliman captured the titles in their respective classes in genuine championship style. Summaries:

ANTHONY AND HAUGH BOX.

The Two Bantams Battle for Eight Rounds, the Result Being a Draw. At the Palace Rink in Grand street, Brooklyn, last night Jimmy Anthony, the bantam-weight champion of Australia, made his appearance at the seventh series of subscription boxing bouts given by the Long Island Social A. C. Maxey Haugh, the game little South Brooklyn bantam was Anthony's opponent. They weighed in a: 115 and 112 ounds. Anthony being the heavier. For seven ounds the Australian stood Hwugh off, and had rounds the Australian stood Hwugh off, and had the talent divided in their estimates of his pugilistic ability.

In the eighth and last round Anthony cut loose and showed quickness, cleverness, and clean two-banded lighting that made the crowl jump to their feet, for Haugh was fighting back in the gamest manner imaginable. The contest ended in a great two-handed rally, and the referce justly called the bout a draw.

In the other bouts on the card Eddie Loeber of Brooklyn and Sam Boland of New York fought eight rounds at 125 pounds. Boland did the better boxing and got the verdict.

Eddie Bricher of Brooklyn faced Jack Burge of Mount Vernon. The latter hammered the Brooklyn lad so hard that he was nearly out in the fourth round. Tho police stopped the "go" and Burge was declared the winner.

The other bout was between two colored fighters, "Stonewall" Allen and Billy Lightfoot. The latter claimed to have an injured arm, and stopped in the third round. Allen won.

SYRACUSE, Jan. 17. A six-round bout between Joe Dunfee, the middle-weight champion of central New York, and La Bianche, the "Marine," was the feature of a boxing entertainment held at the Alhambra to-night. Dunfee had La Bianche almost out in the second round, and could have finished him at any time, but he eased up for the good of the sport, which the police authorities permitted, and the "Marine" lasted five rounds.

His quit at the end of the fifth round, and the contest was decided in Dunfee's favor by Tommy Ryan, the referee. Dunfee broke a bone in his wrist during the bout, and will be laid up for at least six weeks.

Sammy Kelly Buocks Out Jack Ward.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 17.—Sammy Kelly of New York knocked out Jack Ward of Newark, N. J., in the twenty-fourth round to-night. Joe Gans defeated Joe Elliott in the seventh round.

Gossip of the Ring.

S. D. P., New York.—He was born at Hallfax, July 29, 1870. He is 5 feet 3 inches tail. His first defeat was at the hands of George Wright, who got a decision over him on a foul. Johnny Lavack of Cleveland, who has figured in some exciting battles during the past year, wishes to have a trial against Solly Smith. Lavack has quite a following in Cleveland. The London Sporting Life states that Arthur Valentine and Tom Lynch, the champion lightweight of Ireland, have been matched to box before the National Sporting Club some time next month.

Brooklynite.—1. They boxed ten rounds before the Seaside A. C. of Coney Island on April 6, 1895. Handler won. 2. They boxed at Chicago on April 11, 1895. The bout was a draw after eight rounds had been fought.

Young Griffo has been ill for the past week, and, according to his physician, he his likely to remain in bed for a month or so more. The physician stated to The Sun reporter that unless Griffo takes good care of himself he will never be able to box again.

A. McF., New York.—They fought twenty rounds, and Creedon received the decision. Not he did not quit. The contest was limited to twenty rounds. They fought twice before this. The first affair was awarded to Creedon, but the second terminated in a draw.

Jack Wrenn, the local boxer, is surprised to hear that he has been matched to box Johnny lavack, the crack Western featherweight. Wrenn visited The Sun office on Wednesday night and stated his willingness to fight Lavack at 120 pounds, the weight suggested.

Unless something unforeseen happens, Peddler Palmer will be met at the dock by Dr. Ordway and a host of friends. Palmer, according to Ordway, is only 19 years old, and is one of the eleverest little men England has turned out since the days of Billy Edwards. Palmer, too, is well educated, and his habits are regular.

J. J. Quinn, according to the London Sporting Utfe, has written a letter to Tony Sage, in which J. J. Quinn, according to the London Sporting Life, has written a letter to Tony Sage, in which Maher's manager, among other things, says: "In my opinion Fitzsimmons will be as easy as O'Donnell for Maher. Peter wants no title as a gift, but wishes to fight for it. He will be in England next summer. If Slavin can get $5,000 backing Maher will fight him, but Slavin must put up some money."

In reply to Dick Burge's ultimatum, Sam Fitzpatrick, Kid Lavigne's manager, has this to say in a letter to the London Sporting Life: "Lavigne is an light weight, and champion of America at that weight—133 pounds. He did not challenge Burge, who valiantly offers to meet the army of the American quartet in Derby week at 142 pounds for a purse of $1,000 or $5,000. I will make this proposition, however, for Lavigne: He will meet any one in England, for any amount, at any weight between 130 and 133 pounds. First come, first served."

New Punching Bag. One of the big sporting goods houses up town has on exhibition a new punching bag, which thing of that kind just for exercise. It wouldn't do for professionals, but for amateurs it is likely to be quite satisfactory. Instead of being suspended from the ceiling the bag is supported by a stout hickory pole. The pole rests in a coiled steel spring, which is set in a big circular iron base which weighs about 100 pounds. The return of the bag after a blow is more forceful turn of the bag after a blow is more forceful than that of a bag suspended under a wooden disk, but it is not quite so quick. In other respects the bag acts just like one suspended from the colling. The beauty of the new contrivance is that it can be used anywhere. It can be set up in any room, or in the hall of even a small flat, where there would never be room for the big striking board of the old kind.

WITH TROTTER AND PACER. Ellard to Raco in Europe-Well-knows Luke A. Burke, Treasurer of the Driving Club of New York, has consigned all of his trotters to the February sale of W. B. Fasig & Co., and will, it is said, give up harness racing. Among the horses that he owns are Pascal, 2:2716: Memorial, 2:24%; Little Frank, 2:25, and Tootsie A., a green mare by Javan, the son of Princeps, Pascal holds the ten-mile record, 26:15, and Burke offered last year to back him for from $500 up to $50,000 to trot a long-distance race, with weight up, against any horse in the world,

H. B. Carroll of this city has purchased from Charles A. Thompson, Independence, la., the Charles A. Thompson, Independence, Ia., the trotting gelding Keno F., 2:17, by Little Mack, and the pacing mare Maud M., 2:15ts, by Adrian Wilkes. Thompson made an old-fashioned "killing" with Keno F. at the Rochester Grand Circuit meeting a few years ago, when he brought the horse on from Iowa, both horse and driver being comparatively unknown an ignored in the betting, and won the $10,000 Flower City Stake. But all the money that he won at Rochester was lost at Independence a year later, when Mary Marshall beat him. Everybody who has seen harness racing in Europe speaks well of the sport and of the opportunities which it presents for American horsemen. Several well-known followers of the trotters are going over this winter on business and pleasure. A. J. Welch, who is wintering at New York, will start for the Continent next month. He may take a string of horses along.

He may take a string of horses slong. Welch has sold half a dozen or more fast trotters of late, and he new owns none except the road team Bermuda Girl, 2:214, and Miss Bowerman, 2:214, John P. Gibbs will sail for Liverpool next Tuesday with the following trotters: Brown, by Electioneer; Addison, Ir., 2:35, by Addison Lambert; Laval, 2:37, by Lavalard; Nick Erwin, 2:40; Lavi Story, by Onsight, and Maxim, by Albert W. Gibbs expects to return to New York in time for the opening of the spring campaign. J. S. Brown of Westerly, R. I., sailed last Saturday for Germany with four well-bred young trotters that he intends to race and sell in Europe, They are Bellwether II., whose sire, Bellwether, 2:1956, is now in Europe; Daisy, a promising green mare by Mount Morris, 2:1956, another crack performer on European tracks: Tempest, by William H. Allen, 2:2344, and Thomas M. James O'Neill, one of the old-time horsemen of New York, may go to England next spring with a view to introducing the American pool selling system on British trotting tracks, O'Neill claims to be the oldest pool seller in the country, having sold his first auction ticket only a trotter in 1801, before Major Quimby, Frank Herdic, Charley Stiles, Ed Morse, Pop Dempsey, or any of the present-day auctionsers were on the block. All betting on English harness races is done through the medium of a bookmaker, the same as on running tracks.

The American Trotting Register Association, publishers of Wallace's Year Book have rejected the record of 2:0744 made by Directly at Fresno, Cal., last February, and the Texas colt Judge Hurt will appear in the forthcoming volume of the Year Book as the champion three-year-old pacer. His record of 2:0044 was gained at Galesburg. III. last summer. The Treason for rejecting Directly's performance is that the meeting at which it took plac rolf course on the grounds of the Seawanhaka and to have the links in readiness for the play-ers by an early date in the spring. In following ers by an early date in the spring. In following the example of the Larchmont Yacht Club, the Corinthlans have been influenced by a desire to cater to the golfers among the members who form a rapidly increasing division. Should the practice sureal, the yachting clubs generally like the hunt clubs, will be forced to make golf a feature to keep the members from wandering to other clubs. The new links will be distinct from the course used last summer by the Oyster Bay Golf Club, which was on the main shore, while the new quariers will be on the Seawan-haka Corinthlan property on Centre Island.

Proposed Links of the Seawanhaks Coring thian Yacht Club. It is the intention to lay out a fine nine-hole

The yachtsmen have a not of eighty-five acres on Centre Island, with a water frontage of 2,400 feet on Oyster Bay Harbor and of Golf feet on West Harbor. The club house, which is in the colonial style, and was built in 1892, the summer homes of a number of the members are also on the property. There are lakes and streams on the grounds, which are charmingly diversified in hills and dales. The turf is firm and thick for the most part, but stretches of sandy self can be utilized to give variety, on which the grass is thun, like the turf at Shinnecock Hills. Thomas Gourlay, now of the links, it has not yet has looked over the grounds, and he says they are well adapted for the links. It has not yet here decided, however, what professional will by out the course, but all decials will be settled in time to begin work as soon as the frust departs. The yachtsmen intend to make the links a model golf course in all respects. Many of the teen will overlook Oyster Bay harbor and the waters stretching back into Long Island Sound. and the waters stretching back into Long and Sound.
